

Help Your Injured Workers "Transition 2 Work"

The network of non-profits includes more than 20,000 organizations, which means quicker placement for injured employees.

Accident Fund Insurance Company of America has partnered with ReEmployAbility® to offer injured workers a Transition2Work® program that helps return them to the workforce quickly. This program enables injured workers to earn income while becoming re-engaged with the work experience following a period of disability.

Transition2Work provides transitional sedentary employment with a non-profit agency for an injured worker when the pre-injury employer is unable to accommodate temporary light duty work. The network of non-profits includes more than 20,000 organizations, which means quicker placement for injured employees.

How it Works

ReEmployAbility will:

- Identify, coordinate and place the injured worker with a non-profit agency that can accommodate the physical restrictions.
- Oversee employee's progress and monitor attendance and compliance with placement.
- Provide regularly scheduled update reports to the employer contact and/or adjuster.

Program Benefits

- Helps to reduce medical & indemnity cost that impact the employer's experience modification.
- Provides assistance to non-profit organization in the community.
- May assist injured worker with faster recuperation.
- Helps injured worker avoid of "out-of-work syndrome."
- Assists in improving sense of value and self-esteem.

How the Employee is Paid

The pre-injury employer continues wages (at least state minimum wage) during the employee's transitional work period. Depending on the rate of pay determined for the temporary assignment, the payment of workers' compensation benefits may be reduced.

Timing of the Program

A non-profit is usually identified within three to four working days of receiving a completed referral form and release to work from the treating physician. Once assigned, the job typically lasts for 1-9 months. The timeframe may be extended if appropriate.
